

Research shows that children are more successful in school when their families are involved in their development and education.

For children with disabilities, the importance of parent involvement can be even greater.

Very often, parents are the only or best source of information about their child's strengths and the impact a disability has on their child's development or learning ability. The Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) mandates that parents be equal members on the team that evaluates their child's abilities and creates an Individualized Family Service Plan (IFSP) or Individualized Education Program (IEP) to meet the unique needs of their child.

The Maryland State Department of Education (MSDE), Division of Special Education/Early Intervention Services (DSE/EIS) monitors and supports local Infants and Toddlers Programs and local school systems to ensure compliance with IDEA and supports the full participation of families in planning early intervention and special education.
